

When evening casts her shadows round

Clowes Bayley
(1834-1909)

John Clowes Bayley (1834-1909) was born in Manchester, England. He was largely associated with the New Church (Swedenborgian). He held several offices there, founding the New Church Orphanage. He apparently was an inventor/entrepreneur, holding patents for “Fire Lighters and Revivers”, “Projectiles and Their Manufacture”, and an “Air-Pump for Pneumatic Tires”. He was well-known in musical circles and mainly wrote organ music and anthems. He died in Highgate, London.

When evening casts her shadows round,
And Nature utters scarce a sound,
When every warbler seeks its nest,
And mortals deep in slumber rest.
Pale Luna sheds her beams of light,
And Heav'n is gemmed with stars so bright,
The weary flowers their eyelids close,
And all is lulled in sweet repose.
Then rouse yourselves,
Ye merry, merry elves,
And haste to the woods away,
Then rouse yourselves,
Ye merry, merry elves,
And dance and sing
'Till the welkin ring,
So long as the moonbeams play.
We'll laugh and sing
'Till the welkin ring,
We'll laugh, ha, ha!
We'll sing, tra, la!
So long as the moonbeams play,
We'll laugh, ha, ha!
And sing, tra, la!
And make the welkin ring.
We'll trip it merrily round and round,
While hearts are light,
And eyes grow bright,
We'll wile the hours away,
So long as the moonbeams play.
But when Aurora points to day,
Then silently we glide away.
