pleasant time is past.

When May is in his prime, then may each heart rejoyce;
When May bedecks each branch with green, each bird strains forth his voice,
The lively sap creeps up into the blooming thorn,
The flowers, which cold in prison kept, now laugh the frost to scorn.
All Nature's imps triumph, while joyful May doth last;
When May is gone, of all the year the pleasant time is past.

May makes the cheerful hue, May breeds and brings new blood,
May marcheth throughout every limb, May makes the merry mood.
May pricketh tender hearts, their warbling notes to tune,
Full strange it is, yet some, we see, do make their May in June.
Thus things are strangely wrought, whiles joyful May doth last;
Take May in time, when May is gone, the pleasant time is past.

All ye that live on earth, and have your May at will,
Rejoice in May, as I do now, and use your May with skill.
Use May while that you May, for May hath but his time;
When all the fruit is gone, it is too late the tree to climb,
Your liking, and your lust is fresh whiles May doth last;
When May is gone, of all the year the pleasant time is past.

Richard Edwardes (1525-1566)

Original spelling:

When May is in his prime, then may eche hart reioyce,
When May bedeckes ech branch with greene, ech bird streines forth his voice:
The lively sap creepes up, into the bloming thorne
The flowres which cold in prison kept, now laughe the frost to scorne:
All Natures Impes triumphes, whiles ioyfull May doth last,
When May is gone, of all the yeare the pleasaunt time is past.

May makes the chearefull hue, May breedes and brings new bloud,
May marcheth throughout evry lim, May makes the mery mood:
May pricketh tender hartes, their warbling notes to tune,
Full straunge it is, yet some we see, do make their May in June:
Thus thinges are straungely wrought, whiles ioyfull May doth last,
Take May in time, when May is gone, the pleasaunt time is past.

All yet hat live on earth, and have your May at will,
Reioyce in May, as I doe now, and use your May with skill:
Use May while that you may, for May hath but his time,
When all the fruite is gone, it is to late the Tree to clime:
Your liking and your lust, is fresh whiles May doth last,
When May is gone, of all the yeare, the pleasaunt time is past.
