

The Untruthful Daisy

Op. 8 No.2

Frank E. Ward
(1872-1953)

Frank Edwin Ward (1872-1953) was born in Wysox, Pennsylvania, son of author Cyrenus Osborne Ward. He attended high school in Washington, DC, and studied at the New York College of Music, Scharwenka Conservatory in Berlin, and Columbia University where he studied under Edward MacDowell. He served as University Organist at Columbia's St. Paul's Chapel and as Associate Professor of Music as organist and choirmaster. He also taught at the Trinity School of Church-music and was organist and choirmaster at several churches including Temple Israel and the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. He established his own school for piano, organ and theory, and was Head of Theory Department Guilman Organ School at First Presbyterian Church, NYC. His compositions include orchestral works, chamber music, cantatas, anthems, organ pieces, songs, and part-songs.

(1911)

She wandered where the daisies grew,
Her lips were red; her eyes were blue.
She plucked a daisy from its bed,
And broke each petal as she said:

"He loves me; he loves me not.
He loves me; he loves me not;
He loves me, daisy, tell me so,"
The final petal answered, "No."

She laughed, but one small teardrop bold
Spread secrets of her heart untold.
"He loves me not?" she tossed her head,
"Why, daisy, you tell lies," she said.

TERMS OF USE

These editions are available as a service to the choral community, offering inexpensive access to public domain literature. Choir resources can purchase other literature still under copyright, especially to support those creating and publishing new compositions and arrangements. These editions have been created using public domain sources under U. S. copyright law. Out of respect to the research, time and effort invested:

please print and issue an edition in its entirety, retaining notices, attributions, and logos.
please do not consider this edition a source for creating another edition.

If performed, sending a copy of the concert program would be a valuable affirmation. If recorded, notification and attribution would be appropriate professional courtesies and a copy of the recording would be greatly appreciated!
