

Thrush Song

Gabriel Pierné
(1863–1937)

Henri Constant Gabriel Pierné (1863–1937) was a successful French organist, conductor, and composer. He served many years as organist at Sainte-Clotilde Basilica in Paris and a conductor with the Concerts Colonne. He was organist for the first performance of Igor Stravinsky's ballet The Firebird, at the Ballets Russes, Paris.

Hark to the song of the thrush,
At the fall of dusk and dew,
Piercing the twilight hush,
Thrilling it through and through;
While the first stars twinkle, twinkle,
And the little leaves crinkle, crinkle,
Low as a rill,
Clear as a bell,
Down from the hill,
Up from the dell,
And all for me and you.

List to the song of the thrush!
From the shadow cool and deep;
Out from the underbrush,
Dim where the pixies creep!
While the winds grow crisper, crisper,
And the little leaves whisper, whisper,
Fine as a flute
Blown at the morn,
Soft as a lute,
Clear as a horn;
A call to dreams and sleep.

Clinton Scollard (1860–1932)
